Me trying to explain to someone that people with ADHD are rebellious and dislike authority but do better in structured environments:
It's paradoxical, and yet, it works.
adhd is so funny because structure feels like a PRISON but if i have no structure i descend into executive dysfunction and just do nothing for days

When you remind an ADHD person to do the thing they specifically asked you to remind them about:
well now I am not doing it Everyone: "Don't do that!"
ADHD People that
